Upcoming Summer Plans...

Plaster model of St. John the XXIII

As we prepare to begin the renovations to the Basilica, there are important details of which to be aware:

Sunday Masses are now being held in the Sacred Heart Pavilion (New gym/Early Learning Center)
(204 Leon Sullivan Way)

On Monday, June 26th, the construction will begin.

If all goes as planned, we will return to the church by Thanksgiving.

Scope of the Work:

The generous gift of the Bishop will include:

- A return, refurbishing, and staining of all the pews to the nave of the church AND the kneelers will be improved!
- The sanctuary floor will be extended and marble will replace the tile in the sanctuary.
- Sanctuary lighting will be enhanced.
- Both the side walls of the sanctuary will also be extended outward and the High Altar steps will be reduced in size and width in order to provide more space in the sanctuary.
- The High Altar itself will be cleaned.
- The main statues of the Blessed Mother and St. Joseph on the left and right side of the sanctuary will be moved into the sanctuary and hung on the wall.
- A new altar, ambo, and cathedra (Bishop's chair) will replace the current ones.
- New tiling will be placed down the center aisle and outward aisle along the wall.

The Parish's responsibility will be to purchase a new sound system and to relocate our Confessional into the main nave of the church.

Patience will be needed with the temporary adjustment of going to Mass in the Pavilion until the renovations are completed. We thank you for your continued support of Sacred Heart.

ABOUT THE MISSION IN THE ARCHDIOCESE OF KUMASI, GHANA

The Archdiocese of Kumasi, in Ghana (West Africa), was established in 1950 by missionaries. During the past 45 years the growth of the Church in Ghana has been blessed and currently there are 16 dioceses and 4 archdioceses.

The City of Kumasi, the seat of Archdiocese of Kumasi has a population of about 2,437,000 people; many living in rural settings. The Catholic population is around 365,000. The work of evangelization takes many forms and continues through the generous support of Catholics worldwide.

The Church's healing ministry and efforts in primary evangelization becomes evident through projects aimed at improving the health and well-being of people such as the building and upgrading of health clinics, the care for street children and providing accessible, clean drinking water by building new wells, especially on school grounds. It is surprising that there are still many areas where people walk a great distance for clean drinking water.

Your support, also, assists in the building of new schools for the education of youth and for spiritual growth. Teachers are in short supply and a new Teachers' College, Christ the Teacher College of Education, has recently opened for the formation of Catholic Teachers. In addition to the academic disciplines, the student-teachers to be trained here will be exposed to Catholic Theology and the social teachings of the Church in order to become agents of evangelization in their interaction with students at primary, junior high and senior high levels.

Contributions received, also, benefit St. Gregory the Great Major Seminary. The generous contributions we have received have helped give rise to an increase of vocations in the Archdiocese.

Archbishop Gabriel J. Anokye expresses his gratitude to the Church in America and acknowledges that the generosity of American Catholics has immensely improved the condition of many people of Kumasi and has aided the growth of the Church in Africa as a whole.

We thank you in anticipation for your welcome and hospitality offered to our missionary representative visiting your parish community on July 1st & 2nd and for the support you offer. We, truly, appreciate the prayers and contributions we receive and strive to be good stewards of what we receive so that it may have the greatest possible positive impact. Your parish family will be remembered in Masses and prayers offered by the priests, deacons, religious, and missionaries serving in the Archdiocese of Kumasi, Ghana. God's Blessings!

Rev. Anthony Appiah Archdiocesan U.S. Representative, St. Anthony of Padua Parish, Arlington diocese, Virginia.

The Language of Covenant Love

The Psalms of July

By MARIAN F. LOVE

The psalms for the month of July are filled with covenant language: God's initiation of unconditional love, blessings, mercy and protection — and the psalmist's response of praise, gratitude, trust, lament and supplication. This is the language of love for those who strive for an intimate and committed relationship with God. Loving-kindness (hesed) and fidelity ('emunah) are sure signs of God's covenant faithfulness, and come as an enduring and pure self-gift.

The psalmist speaks on behalf of the people's efforts to remain faithful despite hardships, temptations and doubt. Remembering God's steadfast love is a hallmark for those striving to remain faithful to their covenant; this encourages them to trust that God's promises are for all times. These psalms call us to consider our own covenant relationship with God that flows from our baptism. If we were to ponder our engagement with God lately, what would we say of our response to God's fidelity in our lives?

Praising God from whom all blessings flow!

On July 2, the 13th Sunday in Ordinary Time, Psalm 89 conveys praise and gratitude for God's covenant with David. David, as king and protector of the people, belongs to God. Through him come God's blessings. God's promises are unshakeable, and his faithfulness is "established forever" (v3). There is cause for rejoicing at such blessedness. Do I stop to consider each day the myriad ways that God blesses me, shows love and cares for me? It could be as simple as having time to enjoy a good cup of coffee as my day begins, or as moving as the first cries of a newborn. Perhaps, there is gratitude and relief that the car repair bill is paid. How truly grateful am I toward God?

Loving-kindness and fidelity are sure signs of God's covenant faithfulness.

Sharing God's marvelous deeds

On July 9, the 14th Sunday in Ordinary Time, covenant language is abundant in Psalm 145. This is a song of praise and blessing to God for his great kindness (hesed) and merciful compassion (hannun) for all of creation, not only reserved for Israel. God's loving-kindness that runs so deep and wide needs to be proclaimed in all days and times, to all people, especially those who are burdened or discouraged. The faithful are prompted to awe and reverence; they are called to announce to the entire human race the blessings available to those who would love God. How often am I moved to awe and reverence that God desires and initiates a loving relationship with me? Do I long for others to know this loving God? Do I tell them about or invite them to consider such a God? What might hold me back from sharing my faith with others?

Participating with God yields abundance

On July 16, the 15th Sunday in Ordinary Time, Psalm 65 speaks of God's direct involvement in preparing the fertile soil of our hearts for the seeds of faith and commitment. The level to which we are open and receptive determines the depth of our faith and abundant life in God. A covenant relationship is a two-way dynamic; our openness and acceptance of God's initiative of loving care and generosity are necessary for a living covenant to flourish. "You have crowned the years with your bounty, and your paths overflow with a rich harvest" (v13). How open am I to a deeper relationship with God? Am I resistant to God's invitations or am I longing for something more from God?

Turning to God in vulnerability

On July 23, the 16th Sunday in Ordinary Time, Psalm 86 is a plea to God to be heard. The psalmist praises God in hope, remembering God's mercy in the past. This is an appeal to God to be accountable to his promises, and not abandon a faithful one in need. "Turn toward me and have pity on me; give strength to your servant" (v16). How often do I bring my deepest fears and concerns to God? Is it difficult for me to be vulnerable, to trust that God is concerned about the details of my life? What happens when I surrender or let go of something that prevents me from depending on God? What might it be like for God when I do this?

Investing in love

On July 30, the 17th Sunday in Ordinary Time, the psalmist expresses reverence for the law, and honors the guidance God provides in living this covenant of love. "My part is to keep your words ... the revelation of your words sheds light, giving understanding" (Psalm 119:57, 130). We need the guidance of God's words, the Spirit of wisdom, to discern the most loving choices for relationship with God and others. This gives us our sense of belonging, our identity and our security. God's word and guidance are precious treasures beyond what worldly treasures can provide. Left to our own whims we would become self-absorbed, self-serving. Do I trust God's desires and guidance in all areas of my life? How might God be inviting me to a deeper level of detachment from worldly influences to make room for deeper loving?

DID YOU KNOW? Pope John Paul II was a special friend of the Knights of Columbus. In his message to the Knights of Columbus in 2003, Pope John Paul II wrote: "By bearing witness to 'the faith that works through love,' the Knights can offer our world a powerful sign of the presence of God's Kingdom and an attractive invitation to rediscover the reasons for the Church's hope. This witness to a hope that does not disappoint is especially important."

Throughout Pope John Paul II's 26-year pontificate, the Knights of Columbus generously supported and completed numerous initiatives to expand the reach of Pope John Paul II's teaching and message of hope and the New Evangelization, including through communication and technology.

Pope John Paul II recognized that the treasury of the Knights of Columbus was deeper than the financial support it provided in its many charitable works. He observed in 2003, "From its foundation, your Order has been committed to the material and spiritual well-being of its members and to the promotion of the Church's mission."
